For those tired of playing doorman to their dog, there is an answer — even for extra-large breeds such as Great Dane, St. Bernard, Old English Sheep Dog, Newfoundland, Irish Wolfhound, Rottweiler and Great Pyrenees.

PlexiDor® Performance Pet Doors has designed an extra-large dog door that even the largest dogs can access without damaging the door.

PlexiDor pet door frames are engineered using hardened aluminum that prevents bending.

The frames won't rust, crack or warp and the saloon-style panels are made of hardened, shatter-resistant acrylic and are sealed with industrial-grade weather stripping for maximum energy efficiency.

The panels have factory-installed aluminum trim designed to prevent the panels from being damaged by chewing breeds and to provide added strength to the entire door.

The combination of these rugged and durable materials results in a dog door that can take the pounding of large breeds that may sometimes hit the door at a full run.

"The PlexiDor extra-large dog door was one of the most challenging sizes we have ever tackled," says sales manager Robert Wollet. "First, we had to gain an understanding of the sheer power these extralarge dogs can generate. We had our work cut out for us, yet we met the challenge."

PlexiDor PD XL weighs approximately 18 lb. and can be mounted into a standard household door or through a wall up to 12 in. thick. They come in three colours - silver, white and bronze. Each door comes equipped with a lock, key and steel security plate to help prevent intruders from entering a home.

Door prices ranging from $149 to $1,249. Visit www.plexidors.com for more information.
